

Christian nation? Please explain!

Sent to: Courier Mail letters@couriermail.com.au

31 May 2016

Please explain, Pauline Hanson what you think makes us a "Christian nation" and justifies your anti Islam, anti Muslim political policy?

Australia has no national religion, and only about 60 % of Australians said they were Christian in the 2011 Census.

Christian church attendances across the nation are falling.

Most Christian leaders have a very inclusive attitude to other faiths, welcome strangers, and help the vulnerable, including people seeking protection from persecution.

Many of these are peace loving Muslims fleeing religious extremism and genocide.

Frederika E Steen AM